How to Handle and Respond to FDCPA Claims

Presented by
June D. Coleman, Esq.,
Kronick Moskowitz Tiedemann & Girard

In today's climate, a California debt collector is very likely to be sued for allegedly violating the FDCPA. In fact, California is one of the most litigious states for FDCPA claims. The first 30 days after the suit is served are crucial to evaluating the claim and planning an appropriate defense. This presentation will explore what a debt collector should do in response to a lawsuit and what can be done to limit the exposure, including limiting the exposure for attorneys' fees.
